Dr. Gossard's Message

It is a pleasure to have this opportunity to greet you through your class Year Book. As the 1945 Manet takes its place among your valued possessions, may it bring back happy memories of your high school days.

Although my association with you has not been long, the memory of your friendliness from the start is something that I shall always treasure.

In this war year the book has added meaning; it will be one means of helping to unite in thought those of you who will soon be in your country's service with those whose task is waiting and working here at home.

It is my sincerest hope for you that life may be very good to you. I dare not expect that it will always be easy, but I do trust that you may meet worthily whatever the years may bring to you. May your minds, your understanding of human problems, and your services to mankind continue to enlarge so that each succeeding year is better and richer than the one before!

Sincerely your friend,

Paul Gossard

Tribute

In that eventful year in which the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, we were only freshmen, entering upon all the thrills and mysteries of high school life. A declaration of war didn't really mean much to us then; we were too young. Now, however, as seniors, we look around us and realize the great toll war has taken. Teachers and classmates alike have left us in the defense of our country. To these courageous heroes from North Quincy High School, we, the senior class of 1945, pay deepest tribute.

Mr. Collins'

Message

Though many books in your library will pass into oblivion, your MANET will increase in interest and value as it recedes into the past. The title itself is meaningless without the associations it connotes. These associations will become memories as the years pass, memories of six years rich with experience. Your athletic triumphs, your classroom trials, your social joys, all can be conjured into reality again as you turn the pages of THE MANET in the years to come.

To the editors and contributors responsible for this MANET, artistic in format, distinguished in word and picture, you are greatly indebted for a permanent record of your years at North.

Foreword

It was a sage philosopher who once observed that one's high school days are the best days of his life. Between the covers of this book are presented memories and reminiscences of those happy days. May the thrill of these memories be reawakened as you peruse this book in later years.

Student Council

The Student Council, perhaps the most active service organization at North, symbolizes one of the basic American ideals—self-government. The Council, consisting of twenty-one senior high students, acts upon ideas and suggestions submitted by the student body. Among the activities sponsored this year were several entertaining and instructive assemblies, the issuing of handbooks to new students, supervision of the yearly elections, and a highly successful record hop. Also a committee of six council members worked with Mr. MacDonald to improve cafeteria conditions. Activities to further the war effort included promoting the sale of war stamps, conducting scrap paper drives, and stimulating contributions for the Red Cross.

The 1944-45 officers are Robert Seller, president; Jilda Bernardi, vice-president; Allan Tate, treasurers; and Patricia Tesson, secretary. Mr. Hermon Noyes is the faculty adviser to this group.

The Library Staff

Everyone knows the duties of the Library Staff. Theirs is the never-ending job of putting in the right place the books that are misplaced by seventh graders (who don't know any better) and by other students (who do know better). They also make out the library permits. That North could not do without a library is evident from the many students who crowd it during their study periods, and from the large circulation of books. Many teachers give assignments from books that can be found in the library. English students at a loss for a book report choice are reasonably sure of the teacher's approval of almost any book in the library.

Of course, it is not all work for the staff members. Every year there is a Christmas party and a Mothers' Tea. For the past two years there have been lawn parties at the end of the year. The Mothers' Tea is almost a traditional event and is looked forward to all year by the members. The members of this staff get a lot of pleasure out of these get-togethers.

Traffic Squad

To be a member of the Traffic Squad, a person must be steadfast and courageous. To illustrate this point, we will take a look at a typical scene in the everyday life of a member.

Our hero or heroine (as the case may be) leaves class two minutes early to reach his appointed position. This strategic position the officer is bound to defend. He stands there waiting for the bell to ring. It does. There is a moment of silence—the calm before the storm. Then, from every conceivable point, the mad rush of pupils to the next class begins. Runners to the right of him, runners to the left of him, runners all around him but our hero stands firm and guides the horde into the proper channels. Finally the rush ceases. All is quiet. If he has been successful, the officer will find himself still in his appointed position. If not, he is likely to find himself six rooms away, in a horizontal position.

At the end of the rush, our gallant friend looks around and picks up the mangled corpses of those unfortunates who did not quite make the class-to-class dash. Then he realizes he has but five seconds to make his own class. He dashes madly, for our hero is also adept as a marathoner. When class has been reached, he falls panting and exhausted into his seat—safe until the next time.

You may have gathered that this is a rather exaggerated account. The traffic officer is proud to have been chosen to serve his school. This year we had one of our best squads. We hope that next year's squad will be equally as fine.

Student Secretarial Staff

The fact that North's teachers are able to find time to participate in extra curricula activities and advise students about their work, is no coincidence. The reason that the teachers have this extra time is that a group of girls in the Commercial Course, chosen from grades eleven and twelve by Miss Gormley, help the teachers by acting as their secretaries. This group is known as the Secretarial Staff. The purpose of this very important staff is to relieve the teachers of any commercial work which such a student can do. For example, the girls do typing, mimeographing, and filing. This relieves the teachers of much mechanical work and leaves them free for more important tasks. The girls, too, profit by the experience. They gain actual practice for the jobs for which they have been trained. The staff, all agree, is one of the most essential school organizations.

Band

The band is such a familiar part of the school that it is taken too much for granted. If there were no band to play at the football games, assemblies, and concerts, how well we would come to appreciate it. North has always had an outstanding band, and this year's has been no exception. Under the direction of Mrs. Whitney the band was organized and scheduled its performances at the beginning of the year.

Inspired by the music of our school song the football team achieved a remarkable victory over our arch enemy, Quincy High. This is only one of the unrepayable debts the student body owes to the band.

This year Roy Bruce was president; Jack Gerstel, vice-president; Ruth Kilpatrick, secretary; Robert Newton, treasurer; and Chandler Cushman, manager.

The Glee Club

This year, the Glee Club has "changed management," so to speak. It is now under the direction of Mrs. Whitney since Miss Chirstman left last year. This year has certainly been a successful one. The Christmas play put on was like nothing ever attempted by the school Glee Club. The colorful, rich costumes and lovely tableaux with a musical background of soft voices made a lasting impression on the whole school. If good Glee Clubs are made by good performances, then surely North's Glee Club is one of the best. Besides their performances, moreover, the Glee Club members have enjoyed just meeting every week and singing.

Tri Hi Y

The Tri Hi Y club is one of the most active organizations at North. The group consists of senior and junior girls who are elected to the organization by the other members in the club. With such outstanding events as initiation, joint meetings with the Hi Y clubs from Quincy High and North, parents' night and a sleigh ride, the club has enjoyed a most successful year.

At first, the weekly meetings were held alternately at school and at the Quincy Y. M. C. A., but later they were transferred to the newly-opened Youth Canteen. Business meetings were held at school, while the meetings at the "Y" and Canteen usually included recreation such as ping pong and movies. The members of the club helped to provide furniture, two ping pong tables and a juke box for the Canteen.

The officers: Millicent Entwistle, president; Barbara Smith, vice-president; Anne Carmichael, secretary; Susan Black, treasurer, were ably assisted by Mr. James Hardy and Miss Catherine McCoy, the club advisers.

Hi Y

If you wear trousers, you can't belong to Tri Hi Y, but you can be a member of Hi Y and enjoy the same grand times with Mr. Hardy. Many activities are enjoyed during each year including informal get-togethers at the Canteen and joint meetings with other Hi Y and Tri Hi Y clubs.

The objective of this group is to provide an evening of fun every other week and because after-class relations are so helpful in making new friends, the purpose is truly worth while. Although the club was late in being organized this year, many varied activities including a sports talk by Danny Alvino and informal meetings with Armed Forces personnel were planned for the remainder of the school calendar. Ping pong tournaments, friendly chats, a sleigh ride, a splash party and movies are a few of the activities already enjoyed.

The club, consisting of more than thirty boys, elected the following officers: Charles Leveroni, president; Russ Tibbetts, vice-president; Danny Phipps, secretary; and William C. McLaughlin, treasurer.

Social Studies Laboratory Staff

A group of carefully selected students composes the Social Studies Laboratory Staff. These members are dependable, conscientious, and helpful to those who come to Room 301 in search of Social Science information.

Miss Pratt and Mr. Noyes are in charge, but the entire responsibility during school hours is taken by the students on the staff. The duties include checking books in and out, recording circulation, and caring for the books in general. Officers are Betty Eckl, president; Eleanor Hatherly, vice-president; and Patty-Bo Harvie, secretary-treasurer.

The members of the Social Studies Laboratory Staff turned social and entertained their mothers at a Christmas Party in December. Coffee and cake were served on candlelit tables, and colored travel movies were shown. In the Spring a picnic was held, an annual occasion, which is always enjoyed by the members.

Prom Committee

Our very successful prom this year was due to the work of a small but untiring group of seniors. They comprised the Prom Committee and were responsible for taking care of decorations, securing an orchestra and carrying out the hundreds of details that must be attended to in order to make a prom successful.

These members were chosen from a list of all the seniors, obtained from the various homerooms. Each of the class officers was asked to check the names of the pupils he thought would be best fitted for the committee. The people getting the most checks were selected.

The senor class extends its hearty thanks to the following seniors who, through their untiring efforts, provided a wonderful evening for all.

Newswriters' Club

Although the Newswriters' Club was in operation last year, recognition was not given in the Manet. This year, again under the friendly and helpful guidance of Miss Palmer, we have endeavored to rebuild in the eyes of the public, a firm, enviable reputation for North and to acquaint fellow students with the numerous extra-curricula activities in the school. Each of our more than thirty reporters has written articles under titles ranging from "Sideline Passes" to "The Late Christopher Bean." Interesting articles written by the student body also were welcomed for publication.

To further familiarize students with our activities, we conducted our intensive publicity campaign with our members posting, in all senior high homerooms, each News from North column as it appeared through the courtesy of the Quincy Patriot Ledger. In addition to our own columns, other articles of interest to North students were posted on our new bulletin board on the third floor.

For our officers, we elected Bob Mahn, editor; Mildred Poch, assistant editor; and Jean Leary, publicity manager.

Bowling Club

The Bowling Club has been a long and outstanding favorite of many students at North since 1934. Each year everyone anxiously awaits the opening day of the season, and this year proved to be no exception. Early in October students assembled in Room 106 to sign up, and at that time the club's able sponsor, Mr. Sylvia, informed the group that meetings would be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Norfolk Bowling Alleys. Membership includes students from grades seven through twelve who are interested. Approximately seventy members enjoyed sociable afternoons participating in this active, healthful sport during the past year. The usual custom of annual summer outings to Nantasket had to be abandoned for the duration of the war.

El Club Caballero

Under the sponsorship of Senor Juan Guillermo Walsh the Club Caballero, the first Latin American club in North's history, was born this year.

Its two-fold purpose is to inspire greater interest in Latin American culture and languages and thus to develop better understanding of the Pan American nations.

Membership is limited exclusively to students of the Spanish language who are passing the subject with a grade of "C" or better, and who are genuinely interested in things Latin American.

The activities of the club have included the initiation of a new type of dance called the Fiesta. The Fiesta features, in addition to dancing, the utmost amount of Spanish atmosphere possible including Latin American music, bull fights, exotic color, and exciting costumes.

Other activities have consisted of frequent meetings, dinner parties, lectures, movies, and discussions. Many of the members are actively interested in Spanish commercial correspondence, Latin American periodicals, South American art, popular music, and politics.

The officers for this year have been the following:

President—F. FORREST POWERS
Secretary—SHIRLEY MARSH
Treasurer—WILLIAM C. McLAUGHLIN
Members of La Junta (Executive Board)
CLAIRE THOMPSON
WILLIAM THOMAS
JANET PERRY
ROBERT CHASE

Girls' Sports

Many of the girls find enjoyment after school in participating in Girls' Sports. Since little publicity is given these activities, all who participate do so chiefly for the recreation. Many have a great deal of talent. Doubtless North would be extremely proud of their girls if there were competition with other schools.

The increasingly popular game of ping-pong draws a crowd on two afternoons a week all through the year. Under the instruction of Miss McCoy many experts are trained.

In spite of the cold weather, the girls are able to splash and swim at the Quincy Y. M. C. A.

A number of the girls find pleasure in playing badminton in the Gym during the winter, and outdoors when Spring weather arrives.

For those who are extremely active there is basketball. Some of the girls have much ability and would be a considerable threat to the boys' team.

Another game for the more enthusiastic girls is softball. It is scheduled bi-weekly during the Spring with Miss McCoy as umpire.

The Bowling Club is a popular organization which enjoys the honor of the largest membership in the school. Bowling is scheduled for Tuesdays and Thursdays under the supervision of Mr. Sylvia.

North is indeed lucky to have so excellent and extensive an extra-curricula athletic program for its girls.

Manet Staff

The success of this year's Manet is due to the untiring efforts of a group of students who, under the directions and with the aid of Miss Schields, worked unceasingly to make it better than any other yearbook ever presented at North. A number of college preparatory pupils, with Russell Tibbetts as editor, comprised the editorial staff, which was responsible for the quotations and activity write-ups. Cooperating with this group were other staffs. The commercial staff under the direction of Marjorie Horton, the art staff under the direction of Christine Young, and the advertising staff under the direction of Charles Leveroni were all indispensable.

By beginning early in the year to collect ideas and material, the combined staffs have prepared a richer and better yearbook to present to this year's senior class.

The Junior Class

The Junior Class, with Robert Gallagher as president, Ruth Kilpatrick as vice-president, Ronald Lynds as treasurer, and Marilyn Shute as secretary, has had a very prosperous year. This was achieved only with the help and co-operation of our class adviser, Miss Fagerlund, and with the support of our class.

In March the "Junior Serenade" was put on with music by the "Stardusters." Dancing was enjoyed, and refreshments were sold by Audrey Wright and Joan Meade.

Boxes of chocolates were awarded to Barbara Rich and Peter Creedon, who won the Elimination Dance. Shirley Marsh and Leonard Soule were the winners of the Spot Dance.

Next year we hope to attain the same high level that this year's Senior Class has reached.

Girls' Club

As in the past, the Girls' Club this year has had its share of serious business and good times. Under the guidance of Miss Crockett, who sponsors the Club, and the capable leadership of Priscilla Adams, president; Dorothy Banck, vice-president; Corrinne McGillicuddy, treasurer; and Marjorie Moore, secretary, the club has enjoyed a very successful year.

After the usual breezy bacon bat at Squantum and an evening meeting of the Executive Board, the club got down to work by inviting Mrs. Saville to come down to North to tell the needs of the Red Cross. The Christmas collection was devoted entirely to the Red Cross, while the Thanksgiving one went to the needs of the Family Welfare. Besides this the girls sent Thanksgiving gifts to the Hospital of the Good Samaritan.

Many hours have been spent in bringing up to date the Servicemen's file; Christmas cards were sent the boys, and two newsy letters have been mailed to them.

Several speakers came to North to speak to the girls about clothes and personality, and as usual their advice was heeded. The Club was also responsible for the successful Red Cross show put on in May. Despite the drastic cut in man power, everybody had a good time at the Girls' Club semi-formal dance. A pleasant afternoon was spent with the Girls' Club at Quincy High as the guests of the Club at North. Although the girls were divided into certain committees, each with a definite purpose all worked together to make the Girls' Club the best North has ever had.

Football

Facing what Coach "Jack" Donahue termed the toughest schedule ever tackled by a Raider team, our North eleven dauntlessly finished the season with a nearly perfect slate. Limiting the opponents' score to 52, the Raiders meanwhile waltzed over the goal line stripe for a record-breaking total of 141 points. The season's climax, a testimonial banquet January eleventh, likewise was very successful. At the affair, which was sponsored by sports-minded citizens, deserving squad members were presented gold footballs and sweaters. Three team members who had previously been chosen for berths on the All-South-Shore dream team were recipients also of football charms given by the Quincy Patriot Ledger. The trio consisted of "watch-charm" guard Bob DesRoches, flashy-tackle Dean Eastman, and "Scotty" Whitelaw, dazzling quarterback.

Junior Tom Fitzgerald, center on last season's mythical dream team, enlisted in the Navy, giving Coach Donahue his first setback. Causing still greater concern was the injury jinx, which in the first game alone put two ends on the sidelines for the rest of the season. Nonetheless Coach Donahue and his charges came through with a prize winning combination sparked by returning first-string veterans: Dunlop, Whitelaw, and Martin.

At the center slot, in spite of numerous injuries, Hank Fisher continually played a hard game. Bob DesRoches and Pat Cluett teamed up at the guard positions. Bob Gallagher, who too had more than his share of the injury jinx, was a third first-string guard. Bob Seller, whose strength on the defensive was a sight to behold, might easily be considered a third first-team lineman. Alex Martin and husky Dean Eastman held down the tackle posts with ends Jim O'Connell and pass-snatching Paul Clem completing the forward wall.

Moulding his backfield around the returning veterans Capt. Danny Dunlop, "Scotty" Whitelaw, junior Dave Burke and Gene Reilly, Coach Donahue had at his command a speedy backfield, possessing brains and co-ordination as well as passing and kicking ability. Big Bill Walsh played in so many encounters that he warrants the title of a first-string back.

Now to the schedule. The lid opener saw a hard-fighting North eleven victorious over an entertaining Framingham aggregation, 12-0. Continuing in a similar manner the Raiders downed a stubborn visiting Milton team 15-0, but in the next engagement with a strong Dedham eleven, the Raiders were on the losing end of a 20-0 count. The following encounter played at Weymouth again saw North nosed out by the very close margin of 6-0. Bouncing back into the win column the Raiders trampled over Hingham 27-0. Then came the memorable clash with Norwood. Here the Raiders put on their best performance of the season, and when the curtain dropped at the Stadium, the scoreboards read North 47, Norwood 0. Last year's class C champs, currently on a 20-game win streak, were next on the slate. In a close hard fought contest, Abington was nosed out 13-12, thus ending its enviable record. Enthusiasm ran high, for now the Raiders were tops on the South Shore. The next Saturday a visiting Plymouth eleven met defeat 21-14. The last game of the season on Turkey Day with our arch rival Quincy was now at hand. This was the rubber game, each school having previously won four times with three ties. The game was close and hard fought throughout. North, starting from its own thirty-five yard line, without giving up the ball, went the distance, Whitelaw going over for a touchdown from the five-yard line. The try for the point missed, but it was not needed, for the game ended a short time later, and once again North became city champs for another year.

Much credit for the successful season should also be given Asst. Coach "Cap" Bryan and his J. V. squad, senior manager Leo Kelly, the waterboys, and, last but not least, the really best cheerleaders North has ever had.

The Basketball Team

Under the able direction of Coach James Le Cain, North Quincy's basketball team received an invitation to the Tech Tournament for the second straight year. Veterans of the '44 squad were Paul Clem, Joey Creedon, Jack White, Scotty Whitelaw and Bob DesRoches, while Gil Melanson, Danny Dunlop, Paul Morrissey and Chandler Cushman comprised the rest of the '45 team. Playing a fourteen game schedule the Red Raiders finished with ten wins and four losses to their credit. North won one and lost one to both Brockton and Braintree, while Quincy escaped with two close wins. Double victories were scored over Weymouth, Quincy, Trade, and Hingham; both Plymouth and Thayer were defeated by North's flashy hoopmen.

At the Tech Tourney the team fought its way into the semi-finals by beating unbeatable Newton. Then in a really thrilling game North lost to Somerville 36 to 34. The basketball squad of '45 left an outstanding record which future teams will find hard to equal.

Throttle Attack

But you can't ignore the performance of those Raiders, who refused to be beaten. True, Paul Clem was the leading scorer with 10 points and played a nice floor game, but it was really the magnificent team work and scrap of every North performer that paid off in blue chips. There was Jack White, "Gunna" Morrissey, Joey Creedon and Scotty Whitelaw, who all pitched in with blood warming exhibitions.

North was installed an underdog, but just wouldn't believe it as it came out for the second half on the short end of a 12-6 tally. The Raiders bottled up Newton's high-touted scorers, Eddie Ryan and

Baseball--1945

When spring rolled around this year, Coach "Hal" Forest greeted several veterans and a large number of new candidates. Among these lettermen are Dave Burke, capable shortstop; Dick Donovan, hard-hitting third sacker; and Joey Creedon, speedy center gardener. Last year's entire pitching staff, including Bill Walsh, Bob Murphy, Bob Plumb and Larry Barry, is also returning intact and, with the addition of Paul Clem, should not be found lacking in experience.

Other boys who saw considerable action last year and who are expected to fill vacated berths are "Hank" Fisher, reliable backstop; Skip Jones, versatile infielder; outfielder Dan Dunlop, popular all around athlete; and Dick Wheeler, smooth-working second-baseman. This material, coupled with the returning veterans, should give Coach Forest a sound nucleus around which to mold a good team.

Many newcomers are trying out for the team and will keep the vets on their toes to hold down their positions. Among these are Pete Cahill and Bob Gallagher who will contend for the catching duties while "Jed" Donovan and Dick Kenny will battle for first base honors. Others who show promise are Jack White, Don Pratt, Bob Doherty and Bruce Lindbom.

Pratt, former Legion player, whose addition to the team strengthens the Raiders' outergarden, is also expected to come through with more than his share of base-hits.

A successful season is hoped for in order to round out a very good athletic year at North.

Class History

Through these stately portals,
When we were young and gay,
We skipped into our homerooms
One bright September day.

We were only greenhorns,
There wasn't much we knew;
The teachers all agreed
That our brains were mighty few.

And now they're all united,
Their conclusions come as one;
We might have had few brains then,
But now, they fear, we've none.

1939 The bell would ring
And up we'd spring into the seething mass;
We had to crawl and push and maul
To get to our next class.

Buzz buzz went a buzzer
In an ominous tone,
'Twas then we first learned
Of the audiophone.

Pupils jumping and soup bowls bumping,
Caught in the general hysteria
Of students who soon would grow to love
Our dear old cafeteria.

We won o'er Quincy that gay year,
Our victory was well earned;
For victories were not meant for us
In the next few years, we learned.

1940 And on we advanced.

We were so glad this year to see,
We were greenhorns no more.
We had earned our place among the elite
Upon the second floor.

We wer introduced to sciences
And viewed them with despair,
And we still ponder o'er them
While tearing at our hair.

1941 Time marches on.

This year our select little group was split,
And each one was sent where he was most fit;
College, commercial, and more did we try,
For we would soon part from junior high.

1942 Time waits for no one.

The students of language
With their "Comments" and "Comos"
Soon drove commercial people
To partaking of Bromos.

The students of shorthand
On translating their notes,
Found in the results,
Another "Mairzy Doats".

1943 And so sophomores are destined to become juniors.

Our basketball team,
Which was one of the best,
Showed our school spirit
In the Tech Tourney test.

Then came the day
Of the great revelation,
T'was the gay event of the Girls' Club initiation. (What a sensation)

Fiestas, siestas, and meetings so gay
Which the Club Caballero then brought our way.

1944 At last the pinnacle!

The summit; We're Seniors now.
We've slaved and toiled for years.
At last we've reached the goal of goals
Through laughter, sweat, and tears.

Our team in football was the tops,
And the jinx has fallen too;
We beat the rival Quincy
Though it took four years to do.

And looking at the years gone by,
We all speak out as one.
Although we've had enough of work,
We've had our share of fun.

We, your loyal sons, O North,
Will journey far and wide;
But no matter where we travel
We'll think of you with pride.

Keep your reputation rising,
Keep your standards always high;
We salute you Red and Black
Never let your spirit die!

The Prom

It had finally arrived! The big night in the senior year—the Prom! For weeks before this gala event, small groups of girls had been gathering in the corridors before school, between classes, at lunch; and always the topic of conversation was the same. "Whom are you going with? What is your dress like?"

The boys too felt the impending excitement and gathered in groups asking each other—"Whom are you going with? May we go in your car?"

However, now it had finally happened. From skirts, sweaters, sloppy shoes, and bobby socks the girls emerged for that one night in frothy, swirling gowns, entirely different people from their everyday selves. There was a pleasant surprise for the girls too, the same boys they had been seeing around school every day were suddenly transformed by their striking tuxedoes into Beau Brummels.

After passing through the reception line all began to feel more at ease and dancing got under way as the heavenly music started. Then, of course, there was the grand march in which everyone marched and marched until he thought even the infantry would be easier than this prom.

Finally it was over, and the happy couples drifted from the hall which was decorated in an iceland motif, the girls clutching their igloo shaped programs and silver ankle bracelets which were presented as favors. All in all, the prom was a great success, and all who attended enjoyed themselves immensely.

Senior Class Play

The play's the thing!—especially when it's The Late Christopher Bean presented by our own Ethel and Lionel Barrymores. Who ever dreamed we'd find such a character actress in Frances Noonan? And here we've been rubbing elbows every day with Bill MacLaughlin, never realizing he had a flair for the dramatic. Jeanne Meskill and Ardelle Killory supported the leads to good advantage. Our romantic leads, Barbara Rich and Alex Martin, along with Robert Mahn, Roy Jack, and Francis Burns put themselves in line for a stage contract by their excellent performances.

This grand combination of characters introduced humor as well as talent as they dashed around the stage in search of a collection of valuable oil paintings, around which the main action of the play was centered.

Mr. John K. Young, the ever-capable coach, and Patty-Bo Harvie, prompter and "pinch-hitter," deserve credit for the part they played in making the production a success.

Last Will and Testament of the Class of '45

We of the Senior Class
From our most exalted position
Draw up today a mighty will
To complete our scholastic mission.

Our teachers say they've taught in vain;
Ours is a sad condition;
It's been a long hard road, and we
Are lacking in ambition.

But in our weary struggle
—For we will show them yet!—
We've gained some things which we pass on
That they may not forget.

To Mr. Collins first we turn
In deep appreciation,
For he has helped and guided us
And merits commendation.

And when our mighty school bell
Declines to ring, at times,
To Mr. MacDonald the Liberty Bell
We leave, complete with chimes.

And in return we ask of him
The smallest thing perceptible:
One Admittance Slip to heaven
That St. Peter deems acceptable.

We leave a shotgun to Miss Berry
For self-defense, not whim,
When the boys discover she suggested
Home Management for them.

And to Mademoiselle Webstersmith
Who teaches French #3
We forward the hope that her Spanish will never Appear where her French ought to be.

Here, within our midst we boast
The "mad scientist" of tradition.
We leave to Dr. C. E. Walkden
This, of our own volition:

To be employed in demonstrations
One patented list of excuses
In case, though through no fault of his,
Some experiment—well—refuses.

To Miss Tolchinsky, something rare
We leave—and here's the catch—
A typing ribbon for her hair
—With the machine attached.

To Mr. Walsh, who's cramped for space,
His room is always full,
We leave a little cubby hole
In which to sling the bull.

And after viewing her exams
We will to dear Miss Horrigan
A Persian rug to break our fall
As we drop to the florrigan.

We the Northern Lights
In the Spirit of '45
Bequeath to Mr. Smoyer
One album of solid jive.

While he distributes 4's and 5's
And dances with despair,
He well might turn to music hot
And cease tugging at his hair.

Our team is known from coast to coast,
Its praise spreads far and wide,
And so to Mr. Donahue
We leave a ton of pride.

And now at last we find ourselves
Face to face with those
Who claim in the coming year
A portion of our woes.

So hail we our successors!
Supposedly dependable—
Soon will disillusioned teachers find
That "They," too, "Were Expendable."

And to you all—our personal friends—
We leave a vision of the world to be,
A world that is ours when the conflict ends
That we must build for posterity.

And we shall make it strong and great,
With peace and plenty for everyone.
We'll wander no more through darkness and hate,
But model our world in the Light of the Sun.

—Patty-Bo Harvie
William Kenney
